

TINY TATTOO PRE CARE

How you care for your tattoo is just as important as the treatment itself when it comes to healed results. You will be emailed a detailed explanation of your post care procedure before your appointment and your artist will also verbally explain it to you during your appointment.

In the run up to your tattoo

- No Antibiotics.
- Maintain a good hygiene and skincare routine to keep skin healthy and prevent ingrown hairs.
- Wear SPF Factor 50+.
- No deep exfoliating treatments/chemical peels/resurfacers/laser treatments in the treatment area
- Discontinue use of Vitamin A derivatives (Retin-A, Retinol, Retinals), AHAs, BHAs, blood thinning supplements or vitamins and physical skin exfoliants (walnut/salt)
- Continue grooming as wanted / per usual.
- No sunbeds or excessive exposure to sun, no fake tan.
- When needed use a muslin cloth, flannel or a sponge for gentle exfoliation during baths and showers.

24 hours before your tattoo

- No alcohol
- Stay well hydrated.
- Prepare for appointment by checking appointment time, address, etc

The day of your treatment

TINY TATTOO AFTERCARE

Day 1: You will have a waterproof clear adhesive film dressing covering the tattoo. The body produces plasma to naturally cleanse and protect the wound. Keep your first dressing on for 24 hours or until the following morning.

Redness, swelling and minor discomfort is completely normal following a tattoo procedure. This will subside within the following 12-24 hours. Do not wear any tight clothes which will put pressure onto the tattoo or will be abrasive.

Do not be alarmed if there appears to be ink mixed with plasma creating a bubble beneath the dressing. This is completely normal. If the bubble becomes tight / is pulling the dressing upwards you can use a sterile pin to pop the dressing, drain the fluid and apply a patch of spare dressing over the compromised area.

Day 2: Remove your dressing by rolling back the edges of the dressing to release one of the corners then pull the dressing outwards keeping it close to the surface of the skin. Repeat this motion as you move round the edges of the dressing until it comes away. Gently wash your tattoo to remove excess pigment or plasma with a gentle cleanser and warm water. (Boil the kettle and allow to cool until warm shower temperature). Pat (don't wipe) the tattoo dry using kitchen towel roll. With clean hands or a cotton bud, apply a very thin layer of aftercare ointment (bepanthen, after inked, hustle butter etc - NOT Vaseline) to the tattoo. The aftercare should melt into the skin and not sit on top of it. Apply a new clear adhesive film dressing over your tattoo. Leave the new dressing on for another 48 hours. At this stage, the tattoo is technically still an open wound so infection prevention is of the highest importance.

Day 4: Remove your dressing, wash and dry the tattoo, apply your aftercare balm and reapply your dressing following the same steps as the dressing change on day 2. Light scabbing and flaking is normal and may be present, these will appear as areas of darker and or bolder colour in the tattoo. Ensure you cover the entire surface area of the tattoo with the thin film of aftercare balm to prevent any scabs becoming stuck to the dressing.

If scabs are lifted prematurely it can cause open wounds, patchiness, reduced ink retention or scarring.

Day 7: Remove, wash and dry your tattoo following the same steps as day 2 and 4 but do not apply a new dressing. Apply aftercare balm to the area a minimum of 2 times per day. If the tattoo is feeling tight throughout the day, additional applications of aftercare balm can help provide relief.

It is imperative that you allow any scabs / flakes to shed away from the skin naturally or during gentle washing and that you do not cause premature lifting or exfoliation as this can cause poor pigment retention, patchiness and scarring.

You may resume showering as normal now however the tattoo should not be submerged under water until any flakes or scabs have come away.

Day 8+: Shower as normal and continue using a gentle cleanser on the tattoo until any remaining scabs or dry skin have healed. Continue to use aftercare balm for the duration of any post healing dry skin. Remember, once new skin has healed over the ink, the lines will always be softer and slightly more blurred than they were originally implanted. Fine line tattooed are prone to patchiness or inconsistent retention and are at a higher likelihood of needing retouches. If an additional treatment is needed, you must wait a minimum of 4 weeks before the same area of skin can be tattooed again.
